

Appendix M

References and Suggested Additional Reading

References

1. Russel, T.W.F., Charles, M.E. The Effect of the Less Viscous Liquid in the Laminar Flow of two Immiscible Liquids. The Canadian Journal of Chemical Engineering, 37 (1): 18-24. February 1959.
2. Hvidbak, F., flemingCo environmental. Positive Displacement Archimedes' Screw Pumps and Flow Enhancing Techniques. Essential Tools in Response to Spills of Heavy Oil and Bitumen. Proceedings of the 26th Arctic and Marine Oil spill Program Technical Seminar, 2003
3. Peigne, G. (CEDRE), Cessou, M. (CEDI –Solaize): Improving the Pumping of Viscous Oil by the Use of Demulsifiers or by an Annular Water Injection. IOSC 1989, p. 175-180.
4. Moffatt C.O., Summary of Test Data from the Testing Portion of the Northwest Viscous Oil Pumping Workshop Seattle Washington 13-17 September 1999 prepared by GPC for the Naval Sea Systems Command Code OOC, SUPSALV
5. Moffatt, C., GPC, U.S. Coast Guard and U.S. Navy, 1999. Testing of the U.S. Coast Guard Viscous Oil Pumping System (VOPS Prototype) at the MMS OHMSETT Test Facility, Earle, NJ, November 1999. USCG/US Navy/GPC Technical Report 19
6. Drieu, M., Loesch, R. (2000). Learning from the Tough Ones: U.S. Coast Guard Viscous Oil Pumping Improvements. Proceedings of the 23rd Arctic and Marine Oil spill Program Technical Seminar. Vol. 1. Pages 415-428.
7. S.L. Ross Environmental Research Ltd. Test of an Annular Water Injection System for Pumping Emulsified Crude Oil. Report from the USCG/US Navy/Alaska Clean Seas VOPS Workshop at Alaska Clean Seas, October 2000, - and:
Loesch, R.M., Potter, S.G., Drieu, M.D. and Moffatt, C. 2001. Pumping emulsified crude oil and viscous oils using annular water injection and steam coils. AMOP No. 24: 319-338
8. Nourse, P. (2002). Testing and Improvements to the U.S. Coast Guard Viscous Oil Pumping System (VOPS) Workshop, In Houma, LA, March 2003. White Paper in response to: Solicitation No. DOI-SNOTE-021016-001: White Papers Sought for Proposed Research To Support the Technology Assessment and Research Program Concerning The Area Of Oil Spill Response Research. Mineral Management Service. 5 pages.
9. Cooper, D., SAIC Canada, Hvidbak, F., flemingCo, (2000). Evaluation of Mechanical Recovery Devices for Spills of Orimulsion®. SAIC Canada Technical Report, 2000.
10. Cooper, D. (2001). Heavy Oil / Orimulsion Pumping Annular Ring Evaluation V1.01 – Final Report, Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC Canada) Environmental Technologies Program. SAIC Canada, Tech. Report No. B187-328, B365-000, Pages 1-26.
11. Cooper, D., Hvidbak, F, Mitchell, T, (2002). Pumping Extremely Viscous Oil Using A Modified GT-185. Emergency Engineering Technologies Office – Environment Canada, Canadian Coast Guard Fisheries and Oceans – Final

- Report*, Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC Canada) Environmental Technologies Program. SAIC, Canada. Tech. Report No. B187-427, B431-000, Pages 1-26.
12. Hvidbak, F., flemingCo environmental. (2001). The Development and Test of Techniques for Emergency Transfer of Extreme Viscosity Oil. Proceedings of the 24th Artic and Marine Oil spill Program Technical Seminar, Environment Canada, Ottawa, Ontario. Vol. 1, pages 339-356.
 13. Hines, D., Environment Recovery Equipment, Inc., 2002. Heavy Viscous Oil Pumping Tests / Demonstrations at ERE Facility in Port Colborne, Ontario, Canada. http://www.ereweb.com/heavy_viscous_oil_pumping.htm, 2002.
 14. Hvidbak, F., flemingCo, 2002. Test and Evaluation of the LAMOR Brush Belt Skimmer on 3+ million cSt Bitumen. Bitor America Corporation Technical Report, 2002.

Suggested Additional Reading

Moffatt C., Beaver T., Snyder B., 2003 Removing Heavy Fuel Oil from the Submerged Wreck of the Jacob Luckenbach. Proceedings of the 26th Artic and Marine Oil spill Program Technical Seminar.

SL Ross Environmental Research Ltd. (1994). Spill Related Properties of fresh and weathered Alaskan crude oils. Report for Alaska Clean Seas. Prudhoe Bay.